"The classes are supported by a grant from the USDA NIFA under award No. 2016-41520-25564 under the Children, Youth, Families at Risk program."

We know that babies have to learn to sit up before they can walk, we know they'll usually crawl before they can run. These are typical developmental milestones that we expect to see in a predictable sequence.

Baby PlayTime with Ms. Patti, is a FREE five week Infant/Toddler focused playtime for parents and other adults in the lives of children. The group will cover skills babies learn through play, and why play is critical to a child's development. This virtual playtime is designed to support parents and caregivers with discussion, resources and of course playing with your babies. Activity kits will also be provided to help support play at home. Ms. Patti will share with parents how actively playing with children supports the development of social-emotional and foundational skills.

Pre-Registration is Required

A link to join Baby PlayTime with Ms. Patti will be sent after registration is completed.

Kits will be sent after the first class attended.
